

Reagan resumes work

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan ended Tuesday from gunshot surgery in "excellent good condition" and with a strong sense of humor as he signed a major economic bill resumed command of the country.

President George Bush said the chief executive was re-energized and looked robust as he resumed presidential business from his hospital early in the morning. Bush, meanwhile, ended the president's day-to-day White House role.

70-year-old president was described by those as being in "excellent spirits," fewer than 24 hours after an assailant's bullet was removed from his left lung.

A pretty much business as usual, with the president pinch-hitting for the president, Bush spokesman Peter Teelley.

The White House, lunchtime crowds milled in the black iron fence under sunny skies. The gates, aides took pains to portray the president as functioning normally.

He directed a Cabinet meeting, met with congressional leaders and greeted the visiting minister of the Netherlands, Andreas A.M. van der Stoep.

House communications were installed through Washington University Hospital.

Reagan was recuperating, seven blocks from the White House.

Reagan's appointment secretary David Fisher set up an office there, and deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said "there's not a lot of difference from him (Reagan) being in the Oval Office."

"We're fully prepared to take care of anything," Speakes said. "He's as fully able to function as he would be anywhere in the world."

White House Chief of Staff James Baker said shortly after the wounded president reached the hospital Monday, "full communications" were opened between the medical center, the White House situation room and the airplane carrying Bush back to Washington from a speaking trip to Texas.

Baker insisted the administration was prepared at all times "for any contingency that might arise."

The chief of staff refused to say whether the United States had sought assurances from the Soviet Union or warned Moscow not to try to take advantage of the situation.

Baker said that after Reagan was attacked Monday, Gerry Parr, the chief of the Secret Service's presidential protection detail, ordered Reagan's limousine to return the president to the White House. But on the way, the president complained of soreness of the ribcage and "he may have complained of difficulty in breathing," Baker said. The course was changed and the limousine headed for the hospital.

Baker said his deputy, Michael Deaver, called from the motorcade and told him the president had not been struck in the gunfire. Not until the president "collapsed" in the emergency room after walking in from his car, did aides realize Reagan was wounded, Baker said.

Deaver then called Baker, still at the White House, and Baker summoned Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. there.

Baker said he headed for the hospital and when he arrived suggested that Haig, as the senior Cabinet officer, should be in charge in the situation room until Bush arrived.

Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., a close friend of the president, emerged from a meeting of congressional leaders Tuesday and said authorities established a motive in the attempted assassination. He refused to divulge details, but government sources who asked not to be identified confirmed that the assessment was based on an e-mailed letter in which alleged assailant reflected a desire "to go out and do something to get himself killed."

Attorney General William French Smith told a reporter "I cannot comment on that aspect of the case."

Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee said, "It does not appear to be a part of a plot."

Could-be assassin

Letter hints at motive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department sources Tuesday have found written evidence that a Varnock Hinckley Jr., accused in the shooting of President Reagan a day earlier, may have wanted to "go to do something to get himself killed."

He was given tranquilizers and held without trial at a Marine base in Virginia, awaiting psychiatric treatment to determine if he is competent to stand trial on charges of attempting to assassinate the president and a federal officer.

Justice Department sources, who declined identification, revealed that federal investigators found a letter written by the accused assassin in the indicated "he might go out and do something to get himself killed," they said.

The letter, the sources said, was addressed to 18-year-old actress Jodie Foster and reflected that "he, the 25-year-old son of a wealthy Denver family, was in an 'I don't care what happens to me' kind of mind."

After playing a pre-teen prostitute in the movie "Taxi Driver," made her stage debut last week in a student production at Yale, where she is a freshman.

An attempt on the life of a president is a federal crime carrying a maximum penalty of life imprisonment, and an assault on a Secret Service agent is punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

A federal statute states, "If federal investigative or prosecutive jurisdiction is asserted for a violation of this section, such assertion shall suspend the local authority, under any applicable state or local law, until federal action is terminated."

Charges have yet to be filed in connection with the shootings of press secretary James Brady and a local police officer.

The U.S. attorney prosecuting the case said Hinckley was arrested on a charge of illegal possession of weapons in Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 9, the same day then-President Jimmy Carter was in the city.

At Hinckley's family home in Evergreen, Colo., a suburb of Denver, family attorney Jim Robinson confirmed that Hinckley was under psychiatric care. He described Hinckley's parents as "heartbroken," but determined to stand behind their son.

Ordinary People triumphs

Once again, television viewers were dazzled by the glamour of Hollywood as they watched the 53rd Annual Academy Awards program Tuesday night. Although both "Raging Bull" and "The Elephant Man" had eight nominations, "Ordinary People" and "Terms" were the big winners, winning four and three Oscars respectively.

The program was telecast live from the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center after a 24-hour delay due to the attempted assassination of President Reagan.

"I'm sure that all of you here and those of you watching tonight understand why we have delayed this program for 24 hours," said master of ceremonies Johnny Carson. "Because of the incredible events of yesterday the old adage 'the show must go on' seemed relatively unimportant."

Carson added that the president was in good spirits and watched the award ceremony on a television set in his hospital room.

According to an AP release, "The posthumous accolade some frantic reshuffling all over town. ABC also had to do some rescheduling. The President Ezra Taft Benson of the LDS Council of the Twelve shakes hands with Hilda Ellsworth, wife of the late Leo Ellsworth, at the dedication of the Ellsworth Agricultural Center. President Benson presided at the dedication ceremonies Tuesday.

President Benson dedicates center

By MARC ENGGAS
Universe Staff Writer

President Ezra Taft Benson, of the LDS Council of the Twelve, honored the late Leo Ellsworth and his family at the dedication of BYU's recently completed agriculture center at which he presided Tuesday.

The center was named in honor of Ellsworth who was a significant donor towards its construction. Elder Benson said he had known Ellsworth for 37 years. Ellsworth was a "pioneer cattleman" in Arizona and the Southwest, he said. Benson said Ellsworth was called to develop and manage an LDS Church ranch in Florida Aug. 31, 1954.

President McKay told him at the time, "Operate the ranch as if it were your own. Put it on a paying basis or sell it. Your decision will be final."

Although his doctors had told him he had only a year to live before he received this assignment, Ellsworth developed the Florida ranch into one of the largest and finest cattle ranches in America, Elder Benson said.

BYU President Jeffrey R. Holland, who conducted the ceremony, said that the principal benefactor for the building's construction was Ellsworth himself, a significant portion of the donation came from the Ellsworth Land and Livestock Company, which is a family corporation. Holland said family members have given part of their inheritance to BYU for the building's construction.

More than 20 members of the Ellsworth family were present, including Ellsworth's wife, Hilda, and his daughter, Myrna Ellsworth Skousen.

In an expression of appreciation for the facility, Dr. Max Wallentine, associate dean of the College of Biological and Agricultural Sciences, gave special thanks to Don Parker and the Powder River Livestock and Equipment Handling Company, who donated most of the livestock-handling equipment for the facility.

Mrs. Skousen, who spoke in behalf of the Ellsworth family during the ceremony, said, "This donation by the Ellsworth Land and Livestock, a family corporation, has been given because of our lifetime interest in agriculture, belief in Brigham Young University and hopes of improving the industry through furthering education."

She said agricultural work is hard because of long hours and high risk. Few students enter the field of agriculture today because they can enter other fields which provide similar compensation for less hours and which provide more opportunity, she said.

Thai government overthrown

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Army generals overthrew the elected government of Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanonda in a coup Wednesday and established a Revolutionary Committee to rule the country, Radio and announced.

A coup came one day after allowed Indonesian commandos to assault a hijacked Indonesian jetliner at the Bangkok airport and free 55 hostages, but was no indication that was tied with Prem's ouster.

Radio announcement said the army, seized power "because of deteriorating situation, political parties are under the stability of the government with an intention of taking the country and changing its dictatorial state."

Reported that Gen. San Chitvanich, deputy commander-in-chief of the army, was the head of the Revolutionary Committee and that Prem had resigned as prime minister and commander-in-chief of the army.

The constitution was abolished and the Cabinet and Parliament dissolved by the committee, which took over at 2 a.m., according to the broadcast made at 2 a.m.

San, 59, is a close personal friend of Prem. He was scheduled to assume Prem's duties as army commander last October when Prem became 60 years old, the mandatory retirement age for that post. Top military officers decided to give Prem one more year as army chief.

Bangkok appeared quiet and normal after the coup announcement, with sparse traffic and no sign of military movements. The broadcast said, "The Revolutionary Committee, comprising members of the army, navy and air force, have taken over and have appointed Gen. Sere Narakorn, supreme commander of the armed forces, as an adviser to the committee."

Prem's coalition government cracked late last month when a key party, with 10 Cabinet posts, pulled out of the government in a dispute with another coalition member over an oil deal controversy.

On March 11, he formed a new 40-member coalition government and King Bhumphol Adulyadej signed a decree approving it.

The new government had appeared to be the least military-influenced since the last civilian administration of former Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj in 1975. Prem had 11 military men in his Cabinet, two fewer than his previous one.

The knee injury came to All-American Nick Eyre at a most inopportune time — a week before BYU's first football game of the 1980 season. The injury was bad enough to keep Eyre away from the playing field for two weeks.

But when BYU's offensive unit gathered for its first game huddle of the season, Eyre took the tackle position.

BYU football trainer, Marvin Roberson, claims Eyre was able to play the entire game by using a clear, thick substance referred to as "dog" because of its garlicky smell and oyster-like taste it brings to one's mouth soon after an application.

"Dog," or more commonly DMSO (dimethyl sulfoxide), has been called the "wonder drug" or "miracle cure" for years by the nation's hook shops, flea markets and corner smoke shops, but recently the claims have been questioned by college and professional athletic training camps. Some sports shops and spas now carry DMSO on their shelves.

But the Food and Drug Administration refuses to sanction the drug's use for anything except a rare bladder condition (interstitial cystitis), veterinary treatment of large animals and experimental research. The FDA's main concerns for DMSO center around possible side effects, such as the drug's ability to carry contaminants into the body through the skin, and "a need for more reliable data."

Experimental research has allowed several college sports programs access to the normally banned substance, including BYU's. A main sponsor of DMSO research and distributor of the substance for human use is Research Industries, Inc. of Salt Lake City, headed by Henry D. Moyle, Jr., a local attorney.

Research Industries sponsors studies by college athletic trainers on soft-tissue injuries such as knee and ankle sprains "to obtain FDA approval." Moyle says he expects the results of the college testing to be completed this fall and presented to the FDA soon after. Meanwhile, college and pro trainers praise DMSO and push for its legalization.

"You can sprain a finger and actually see the swelling go down when you apply DMSO, but it's illegal in the state of California," said George Anderson, head trainer for the Oakland Raiders football team. "I can't say that we use it or we don't use it."

Anderson said his pro camp was one of the first to use DMSO on injuries on the West Coast until it was banned and "there was nothing better as far as getting the swelling out, arthritis, bursitis, things like this — it does a helluva job."

Roberson agrees, saying the drug "puts kids back on a football field within a week where it may have taken two weeks." He said all the sports at BYU use the drug on a regular basis. Several college athletic departments are currently researching for Research Industries, including the University of Utah, San Diego State University, University of Texas at El Paso and University of Oregon. Most of the trainers are believers in the substance, but some are sceptical.

Russ Cagel, assistant trainer for U of O's athletic department said his school just completed a double-blind test on moderate injuries to ankles and knees and he said concern was expressed about contaminants the drug could carry into the bloodstream. Cagel said most athletes using DMSO obtain the drug on the black market.

"It's on the black market, let's face it," he said. "I'm concerned with it because of contaminants that could be in the bottle and carried into body. What if a student puts on some DMSO and was into a chemistry lab? It can also be rather dangerous if you don't use proper dosage."

Moyle also disapproves of using industrial-grade DMSO on humans.

"I'm concerned about it because people don't know how to use it and they don't use it under a doctor's direction," he said. "He's (the illicit user) out on a limb and so is the doctor on the other side."

To combat the uncontrolled use of DMSO, intended as a solvent or degreaser, the FDA has issued two warnings against using the substance for medical purposes, said Faye Peterson, the FDA's DMSO spokeswoman. Miss Peterson said because of evidence and controversy brought out during some hearings before congressional committees studying the drug, an FDA DMSO steering committee was formed. Moyle, Roberson and Dr. Brent Pratley, the orthopedic surgeon for BYU's athletic department, testified before the congressional committees last summer in favor of DMSO.

"The committee coordinates all the activities surrounding DMSO," she said, "such as the problem of industrial grade DMSO being sold without prescription and monitoring the testing. The committee also attempted to obtain records from clinical investigators using DMSO because they felt, that adverse reactions had not been reported."

Miss Peterson said once the DMSO research was completed it would take about six months for the drug to receive FDA approval, but "the average drug approval time for last year was 20 months." She said the FDA is currently not ready to approve DMSO "for the multitude of things it's claimed effective for," because there hasn't been adequate controlled research.

FDA warnings about the drug have done little to slow its flow throughout the country. "It's about as free in this part of the country as white lightning," said UTEP head trainer, Don Forester. "The price is going up every day on this stuff because it's getting more and more in demand." Forester said DMSO could be bought by the gallon in the El Paso area for $90.

Ed Sturgeon, the FDA supervising investigator in Salt Lake City, said the problem is the same in Utah.

"We're perfectly aware that it's sold as a solvent for medical use," he said. "It's pretty widespread here in Utah — you won't have any problem finding it."

Recent classified ads in local newspapers offer DMSO by the eight ounce bottle at prices ranging between $10 and $20.

Moyle said he sees great things for DMSO and hopes to get the jump on marketing the drug before any other companies.

"I think it has great capacities, a lot of pharmacodynamically attributes — it does great things," he said, "but I don't like to see it classified as a wonder drug."

Working on the cold-draw approach

One elder who has his discussions down cold, Elder Frosty, hails from the North Pole, was called to serve a mission in the area. The idea must have steamed him up though, because as the sun came out, Elder Frosty went AWOL.

'Be missionaries,' urges Elder Kikuchi

Elder Yoshihiko Kikuchi, addressing a devotional assembly Tuesday, urged BYU students to gain happiness through missionary work, while President Jeffrey R. Holland denounced the attempted assassination of President Ronald Reagan.

"Yesterday was too much like a recurring nightmare," Holland said of Monday's assassination attempt.

He condemned the senseless act of murder, asking students to include John Hinckley Jr. and his family in their prayers for those who were wounded.

"We don't understand him or people like him, but we are commanded to love him," he said. Holland said not only is it wrong to kill, but even to be angry with a brother is to sin.

"Most of the wars we are asked to denounce are not in Afghanistan, but right here with people like you and I."

Elder Kikuchi, of the LDS First Quorum of Seventy, counseled students to follow President Spencer W. Kimball's advice to work diligently to share the gospel, while using stories from the lives of Enoch, Ishi and Nephi to illustrate the attitudes and actions necessary to become a missionary.

Quoting President Kimball, Elder Kikuchi said missionary work "is not simply left to our discretion or pleasure; we must have a firm determination to teach our neighbor."

"He said it in such a cute way and in such a charming way," said Elder Kikuchi.

Elder Kikuchi said missionary work is not easy, but members should follow the example of President Kimball, who has spent his life devoted to missionary work. "This is a great obsession of our prophet," he said.

BYU students are studying at the most inspired, beautiful and profound institution that can be found anywhere in the world, said Elder Kikuchi. "You are the leaders of the church, nation and world," he said. "You are the saviors of the world."

Elder Kikuchi related the story of Nephi and his trials in the wilderness as an example of how church members ought to show similar obedience in sharing the gospel with the world.

The audience was amused by Elder Kikuchi's imitation of Laman and Lemuel, when Nephi told them he would build a ship. "Our brother is bakka. Interpreted, our brother is a fool," he said.

Utah Tech now offering two-year science degree

Utah Technical College at Provo now offers a two-year associate of science degree emphasizing vocational education instead of general education.

The new associate of science degree will be transferable to four-year colleges and universities in Utah or any institution accredited by the Northwest Accrediting Association.

Details concerning acceptance of the new degree at BYU are uncertain, according to Robert Peters, admissions counselor.

"At the present time, UTC is on a pilot program for three years and during that time the bugs will be worked out. They have a series of general education classes that fit our G.E. requirements. These classes can be transferred straight across to BYU.

"As far as our having a policy on how to view this new degree, nothing has been written. We would have to see how the new requirements correspond with ours," he said.

According to UTC President Wilson W. Sorensen, the college will still offer a curriculum 75 percent vocational oriented with 25 percent of the classes dealing with general education topics.

"Our primary purpose is vocational," Sorensen said. "But this new authorization opens vast new opportunities to anyone wishing to attend our school."

Videotext offers news preview on cable TV

Cable television viewers on the BYU campus and in Provo can get a preview of stories in the coming Daily Universe through a videotext news program beginning Wednesday.

The 15-minute program will display 15 to 20 local news items out of the newspaper on the viewer's television screen. It will be broadcast over BYU campus cable channel 8 and Provo community cable channel 24 at 9 p.m. and at 7:15 a.m. Monday through Friday.

Videotext describes a service that displays words on a television screen, explained William C. Porter, director of the experimental cable news show. A headline and abbreviated news items will scroll onto the viewer's screen along with a reference to the page where the full story will be found in The Daily Universe.

Porter said the news show is being produced through the end of the semester to allow faculty members and students in the BYU department of communications to gain experience with such a news service.

"A number of newspapers around the country are experimenting with cable television as a way of delivering news to customers," Porter said.

He added that cable TV is only one of several alternate delivery systems that news organizations are investigating. Others include call-in audio tape services, two-way computerized information systems and services that deliver text material to the television screen along with the regular program signal.

BYU's campus cable system is available to all residence halls, housing nearly 6,000 students, as well as classroom buildings. Provo community cable reaches approximately 3,000 subscribers.

Assisting Porter in developing a videotext cable news program are E.A. Jerome and Cecilia Fielding, both faculty members.

Marrow needed to save girl's life

Thirty-five thousand dollars is the main factor standing between 13-year-old Becky Barton of Orem and the bone marrow transplant she needs to save her life.

Becky, daughter of Edson and Ann Barton of Orem, is the victim of acute myelogenous leukemia (AML), AML is an uncommon form of leukemia ordinarily limited to adults.

The Bartons hope to have the transplant soon since Becky is in remission right now and should have the transplant before she has a possible relapse.

Becky has been an active young girl who enjoys sports, school and swimming.

Becky has already lost her hair through chemotherapy. She wears a turban or wig, and she goes on with her life.

According to Dorothy Sudweeks, a spokeswoman for an organization to raise money for Becky, Becky has a better chance of survival because her sister is a perfect match for a bone marrow transplant.

Mrs. Sudweeks said there will be a booth set up at University Mall Wednesday between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. for Becky. Contributions may also be mailed to "The Becky Barton Fund," P.O. Box 908, Orem, Utah, 84057.

With her own athletic patches glued to the mirror, Becky Barton adjusts the turban to cover her head after losing her hair from chemotherapy. She is a victim of a rare type of leukemia and needs a bone marrow transplant.

Y baseball team blasts Utah 14-6

By KEVIN STOKER
Asst. Sports Editor

Opening with a hitting barrage that resulted in seven runs in the first inning, the BYU hitters had a field day with Utah's pitchers as the Cougars trounced the Utes 14-6 at home Tuesday.

First baseman Wally Joyner hit two home runs and knocked in five runs to lead the BYU batters. Steve Campbell and Ken Clayton each had homers in the Cougars' high scoring first inning.

BYU Coach Gary Pullins said the key to the Cougars' 20 hits was a last minute pitching change by the Utes.

"Our guys were keyed up to face (Jim) Teshan, Utah's ace pitcher," Pullins said. "When the players found out (Larry) Huppert was pitching, the guys relaxed enough to be polished at the plate."

While the BYU batters were relaxed, Huppert was under pressure from the opening moments as lead off batter Campbell started the game with a long distance homer. Huppert pitched one third an inning and gave up seven hits before being pulled.

Things didn't get better for Utah's reliever Kelly Lund. He gave up 11 more hits and five runs over the next five innings.

While BYU's hitters were blasting the Ute hurlers, Cougar pitching ace Peter Kendrick was holding Utah without a hit for the first four innings. The Utes' only run came off a walk and a stolen base by Lance Brewer and two BYU errors.

Kendrick gave up three hits and one run before being relieved by George Gowland in the seventh inning.

"Peter Kendrick and our starting pitcher Friday, Paul Doty are pitching as well as any two pitchers in the country," said fifth year coach, Pullins. "Peter hasn't had a bad game yet."

Kendrick, who is now 6-2 for the year, has pitched five complete games, three shutouts and one no-hitter, while compiling an amazing 1.48 earned run average.

This year the Cougars have as good as pitching as they've had since he came. Pullins said. It's so good that Pullins has been unable to use BYU's top reliever George Gowland as much as he would like.

Gowland gave up five hits and five runs in the seventh inning and then put the Utes down one-two-three in the eighth. Pullins attributed Gowland's shaky performance to lack of playing time.

The Cougars upped their record to 18-16 and will make its fifth home appearance this Friday as it takes on the University of Wyoming in a double-header starting at 11 a.m. Utah — 100 000 500 — 6
BYU — 720 032 000 — 14

BYU pitcher George Gowland huris one during a game Tuesday with the University of Utah. Gowland gave up five hits in the seventh inning and struck out three Ute batters in the eighth.

Y's McGown accepts job

Carl McGown, former BYU men's volleyball coach, has accepted a position with the 1981 U.S. National Volleyball team as technical adviser and assistant coach.

McGown, who coached the U.S. National Team from 1973-76, will join head coach Doug Beal this summer and travel to the North American-Central American Games in Mexico City during late June and early July.

"One of the things I like about this position," said McGown, "is that I can work with the National Team during the summer months and still keep my position here at BYU."

McGown is presently the faculty adviser to the nationally-ranked men's volleyball team and assistant coach to the women's volleyball team at BYU.

While coaching the BYU men's team from 1976 through 1980, McGown led the Cougars to one second-place finish and one fourth-place finish in the United States Volleyball Association National Championships.

Should the U.S. National Team qualify for the 1984 Summer Olympics at Los Angeles, McGown will work with the team throughout the summer games.

Softball squad opens season

By JOHN EIGENAUER
Universe Staff Writer

The BYU women's softball team recently returned from a three-day road trip to St. George, where it played five games, winning three and losing two. The Cougars dropped two to Northern Arizona, 5-1 and 2-0, but shut down the College of Eastern Utah, 9-0; UNLV, 5-0; and Dixie, 2-1.

BYU's team features nine freshmen of the 16 players, including five starters. According to Coach Earlene Durrant, the pitching and the defense are strong this year. Nancy Hinkle, a freshman, and junior Jackie Hardon provide the tough pitching, while Cory Green, Marilyn Bodily and Rocki Reed provide strong defense up the middle.

Durrant said the team can compete with any school in the nation, which is surprising considering that BYU has no scholarship athletes in this program. BYU competes as an intramural team and not an intercollegiate team.

BYU has not always been extramural; several years ago it was intercollegiate, and competed with major schools across the nation. One of the reasons this ended was that the national championships were played on Sunday.

The national championships have since been changed to Friday and Saturday. Coach Durrant said she does not know why they are not allowed to go AAUW, despite their strong desire to do so.

The main difference between being extramural and intercollegiate is that an extramural team cannot compete for the national championships, something that Coach Durrant said is within reach.

"We can bring national recognition to this school as well as any sport," she said.

That is a lot of confidence, yet well founded. The nation's defending champion is the University of Utah, a team that BYU defeated every year until BYU went extramural and the U of U went intercollegiate. This past year, BYU lost four quality athletes to Utah because Utah could offer them something that BYU didn't have: scholarships.

Durrant said that may be the difference between a good team and a national champion.

Women's b-ball needs dunk

NEW YORK (AP) — The University of Kansas scoring star Lynette Woodard, honored Tuesday as the outstanding player in women's college basketball for the 1980-81 season, said that the woman's game was not comparable to the men's in one respect — and she hoped to remedy that soon.

"The woman's game is much like the men's," Woodard said after being named winner of the Wade Trophy. "The only thing missing is the dunk — and I don't think it will be long before someone gets it."

"I think one day I'll be able to get it," added the 6-foot Woodard, the all-time leading scorer in women's college basketball with a four-year total of 3,649 points.

Woodard, the all-around leader of Kansas' Big Eight Conference champions who compiled a 27-5 season's record, said she has been training like a high jumper in an attempt to execute the dunk.

Spikers to host Southern Cal

The BYU men's volleyball team will attempt to keep its perfect record against the University of Southern California intact as the spikers host the Trojans tonight at 7:30 in the Smith Fieldhouse.

The Cougars, one of the top teams in the United States Volleyball Association's National Open Division, upset USC 3-1 last year in Smith Fieldhouse and will be looking to up the record to 2-0 against the Trojans.

"I think USC is a strong team, but not strong as when we beat them last year," said BYU Coach Mike McLean. "They have had injuries and I think it will be a very close match."

Both BYU and USC will be returning their top athletes from last year's teams. Trojans have the height advantage, averaging inches taller per person than the Cougars.

USC captured the 1980 NCAA volleyball by defeating UCLA and is presently ranked behind the same Bruin team.

Revenge the battle cry

Revenge will be the BYU tennis team's battle cry when it faces Utah today at 5 p.m. on the Cougars' indoor courts.

The No. 5 and No. 6 singles matches will begin at 5 p.m. and will be followed by the remaining singles and doubles competition at 6:30 p.m.

BYU lost to Utah 8-1 earlier in the year and has been waiting for nearly a month to even the score. The match will be the Cougars' last dual meet with another Western Athletic Conference school before the WAC championships, May 5-9 at BYU.

According to Coach Larry Hall, the match will be close and will hinge on the outcome of the No. 2 and No. 5 singles. The doubles matches will also be an area in which BYU must play well to stop the Utes.

Matt Murphy, BYU's No. 2 singles player, has an 11-13 record. Chris Spackman holds a 14-10 advantage over his opponents. Hall describes their matches as "even."

Richard Bohne was the lone Cougar to win a match in the earlier Puma scalping in Salt Lake. Hall claims both Bohne and Mike Codiga are likely winners in No. 3 and No. 4 singles.

In the No. 1 singles match, Utah boasts one of the top tennis players in the country. Jeff Robbins is currently ranked among the nation's 50 best netters.

Knight: star of game

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bobby Knight can be arrogant and rude, haughty and unyielding, but he is also a principled and a fault. He is, indisputably, a brilliant basketball coach.

A game marred by the shock and sadness of the shooting of President Reagan, when serious consideration was given to postponing the game to the tragedy, Knight guided the Indiana Hoosiers to the NCAA basketball championship with a marvellously orchestrated 68-50 victory over North Carolina Monday night.

Knight was voted the outstanding player of the tournament after scoring 19 of his 23 points in the final half. But although Thomas wore the national net around his neck after the game, Knight was the star of the show.

North Carolina jumped in front 16-8 in the first 10 minutes, Knight made the key move of the game. He switched 6-6 guard Randy Wittman from guard to forward to replace the foul-plagued Ted Kitchel brought guard Jim Thomas off the bench, with a three-guard offense and putting Jim Thomas on North Carolina scoring star Al Wood.

He had trouble getting out the game started," exclaimed Knight. "I really thought the crucial came when it was 16-8. Carolina had a chance to take us out of the game, but our kids checked a job hanging in."

Maybe it was a bad thing to get Kitchel in

NBA playoffs

Chicago downs Knicks 90-80

NEW YORK (AP) — David Greenwood, led to two points in the first half, scored 11 in the first five minutes of the third quarter to spark Chicago Bulls to a 90-80 victory over the New York Knicks Tuesday night in their National Basketball Association playoff opener.

The Bulls can wrap up the best-of-3 first-round series by winning Friday night in Chicago. The game, if necessary, would be played Sunday in New York.

Mike Sobers topped Chicago with 18 points, David Greenwood finished with 17 and Artis Gilmore, Bulls' 7-foot-2 center, contributed 13 points, rebounds and six blocked shots as the Bulls won their ninth consecutive victory and 14th in their last 16 starts.

Phillies led by Carlton, Schmidt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Will success spoil the Philadelphia Phillies? For almost a century of failure, the Phillies ended their first world championship in 1980, mostly to brilliant seasons by Steve Carlton and Mike Schmidt.

In the age of 35, Carlton (24-9) led the National League with 24 victories and 286 outs in 304 innings, ranked second in earned average (2.34) and captured the Cy Young Award.

In the meanwhile, MVP Schmidt led the majors with 121 runs and topped the league with 121 342 total bases and a .624 slugging percentage.

In modern-day Phillies are far removed from 1950s White Kids. Carlton and relief ace Tug McGraw are 36, catcher Bob Boone 33, first baseman Pete Rose 40, shortstop Larry Bowa 35, left fielder Greg Luzinski, whose 223 career hits did not figure in Manager Dallas Green's plan for 1981, especially in view of the recent action of outfielder Gary Matthews from the San Francisco Giants, was sold Monday to the Chicago White Sox.

Tommy Smith, who replaced Luzinski more than a season progressed, is the only player under 30, and that includes second baseman Manny Trillo, center fielder Garry Cox and right fielder Bake McBride, along with Schmidt and Matthews. The speedy, elusive Smith gave the Phillies a new dimension stealing 33 bases in only 100 games.

foul trouble," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith, who has reached the Final Four six times and the championship game three times in his 20 years at Chapel Hill, N.C. "In comes Jim Thomas and he plays like he should be on the all-tournament team."

Told that both Thomases had been voted to the squad, along with Wood, Landon Turner of Indiana and Jeff Lamp of Virginia, which beat Louisiana State 78-74 in the consolation game, Smith joked, "Gee, you sports writers are smart."

"I'm extremely proud of this team," said Knight. "We were 7-5 in December but they never gave up. I've never seen a group of kids stay with a goal and work harder toward an end."

And now the end is here. The Hoosiers won 18 of their last 22 games, including their final 10 in a row. Ranked ninth in The Associated Press final poll, the Hoosiers beat Maryland, Alabama-Birmingham, St. Joseph's and Louisiana State to earn the spot in the final.

"To see the way these kids developed over the course of the season was extremely gratifying," said Knight. "Coaching basketball in general is very satisfying to me personally. I coach basketball the way I think the game should be played."

Wittman said, "Discipline is our success. We can't go like a lot of teams, just get out and run. We have to be patient, and that takes discipline."

Dr. J. cans 32 as Sixers win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julius Erving's game-high 32 points and 20 each by Darryl Dawkins and Bobby Jones triggered the Philadelphia 76ers to a 124-108 victory over the Indiana Pacers Tuesday night in the first game of their best-of-3 Eastern Conference playoff series in the National Basketball Association.

The first-round series continues Thursday on the homecourt of the Pacers, who have reached the playoffs for the first time in their five-year NBA history. A third-game would be played, if needed, in Philadelphia next Sunday.

Billy Knight, with 25 points, and Mike Bantom and Johnny Davis, each with 19, topped the Pacers, who never got closer than 10 points after leading midway in the first period.

The 76ers broke open the game after trailing 27-22 with 8:13 left in the first period, and then outscored Indiana 16-6 to lead 38-33 at the end of a quarter.

The 76ers finished in a tie for the Atlantic Division crown with the Boston Celtics but were forced into the mini-series under a league tie-breaking procedure.

Teaff to talk at banquet

Grant Teaff, head football coach and "Miracle Man" at Baylor University, will be the featured speaker at the annual Cougar Club banquet, to be held on the BYU campus April 8 at 7:30 p.m.

Baylor had a 3-28 record in football during the three seasons before Grant Teaff arrived on the Waco, Texas, campus. In his first season, Teaff received Southwest Conference Coach of the Year honors, as he turned around the negative attitude that had pervaded the football team and its fans.

During his nine seasons at Baylor he has become the school's second winningest coach, with a 51-48-3 record, and has become a popular speaker throughout the country. The Bears were predicted to finish sixth or seventh in the league in 1980, but instead broke 28 school records in winning the Southwest Conference championship.

During the banquet, the annual Cougar Club athletic awards will be presented, and the Dale Rex Memorial Award will be given to the person who has contributed the most to amateur athletics in Utah during the past year.

Cost of the banquet, which will be held in the ELWC ballroom, is $7.50 per person for Cougar Club members and their families and $10 per person for guests. Tickets may be obtained by contacting the Cougar Club Office in the BYU Alumni House, 378-2717.

White Sox adds power to '81 club

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

First Ron LeFlore. Then Carlton Fisk. Now Greg Luzinski. Any resemblance between this year's Chicago White Sox and last year's club is purely coincidental.

"As of today, I think the rest of the American League West has to consider us seriously," Eddie Egnolf, Chicago's new president, said Monday after the White Sox purchased slugger Luzinski from the Philadelphia Phillies for an undisclosed amount of money. "Now we have the power we didn't have."

The sale of Luzinski, 30, climaxed days of rumor that he would be leaving the world champion Phillies, especially since they acquired Atlanta outfielder Gary Matthews last week.

The White Sox new-found power was missing Monday. Instead, home runs by Cincinnati's George Foster and rookie Dave Van Gorder keyed a 12-hit attack and backed the six-hit pitching of Mario Soto, Doug Bair and Tom Hume as the Reds handed the Sox an 8-3 exhibition defeat.
